The 10th Annual "E Ho`oulu Aloha – To Grow In Love," a celebration of Hawaiian arts, culture, food and entertainment, will be held Saturday November 27, 2010 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the beautiful grounds of the Bailey House Museum and adjoining Yokouchi Estate in Wailuku.

Na Hoku Hanohano Award winner of the 2010 Hawaiian Album of the Year and Favorite Entertainer of the Year, Uluwehi Guerrero will again volunteer his talent and organize the stage performances as his way of "giving back" to the Bailey House Museum. The concert will include well-known local entertainers Richard Ho`opi`i and Lei`ohu Ryder. The program will also include Hālau Hula Kauluokalā and Na Leo Lani O Maui community choir, directed by Gale Wisehart. The concert will be emceed by Braddah Poki from Pacific Radio Group.

To celebrate the 10th anniversary of this fundraiser, we will be adding more food and crafts vendors, as well as a keiki activity area. There will also be a silent auction, pre-holiday shopping at the museum gift shop, and free museum admission as part of this celebration of Hawaiian culture.

Hawaiian plate lunches will be among the ono food available. Come watch the lei ladies make fresh flower lei for sale and master lauhala weavers practice their craft, as well as demonstrations of Hawaiian quilting, kapa making and poi pounding.

Tickets available now!

Visit Bailey House

or call 244-3326 for tickets.

Tickets are $10 in advance and $15 at the gate.

Ohana Day

Aloha! We are excitedly preparing for the 10th annual "E Ho'oulu Aloha-To Grow in Love"! This year we are adding more vendors, food, Hawaiian arts demos and a keiki activity area for an event that will be bigger and better than ever. Mahalo for supporting this wonderful Hawaiian cultural event for ten years!

Marsha and Mandy at Wailuku First Friday

The past six months have been busy with new events and programs. The Quilt Show and Exhibit in April was very well attended, colorful and fun. We want to thank trustee Melissa Kirkendall for organizing the show. In May we had another `Ohana Day, this time with a kani ka pila. In July we started a six-week summer arts class on lauhala weaving. Other events this year included our Annual Meeting in August where we unveiled our restored native plant garden and touring brochure, a panel discussion at the J.W. Cameron Center in September on Maui in the 1950s, 60s and 70s to celebrate the new Index to the Maui News 1951-1973, and our 2nd annual Museum Day with free admission, book signing and book sale. Thank you to everyone who has attended our events and to our members. Without your support, none of this would be possible.

Focus on Historic Preservation
Ka`ahumanu Church

Did you know that Ka`ahumanu Church in Wailuku was built by Edward Bailey? According to church history, Queen Ka`ahumanu attended services given by Reverend Jonathan S. Green in Wailuku in 1832, and asked that when the congregation built a church, that it be named for her. The current church building, the fourth on this site, was built under Edward Bailey's supervision in 1876. In 1884 the tower and clock were added, a donation from the W.H. Bailey family.

The church is raising money for a major renovation. According to the Maui News, an estimated $850,000 worth of work would include restoring the leaning steeple, reroofing, waterproofing the exterior, repairing the foundation, and doing historical restoration on pews, windows and doors. They are also hoping that a wooden outbuilding that houses the Punana Leo Hawaiian Language Immersion Preschool on the church grounds will be refurbished.

For more information or to make a contribution, please contact Kahu Wayne Higa at 874-1815.

Museum Day at Bailey House on September 25 featured a book-signing by Victor Pellegrino of his beautiful new children's book, Uncle Kawaiola's Dream. There was also free admission to the museum and a book sale. Mr. Pellegrino's book is available in the museum shop.

Garden Restoration

This summer the Chas Fisher Memorial Gardens at the Bailey House received a major facelift! A native plant restoration was undertaken, coordinated by Hōkūao Pellegrino, Kamehameha Schools instructor, volunteer and Bailey descendant. The project also included improvements such as tree trimming and irrigation repairs. The restoration was sponsored by a grant from the Cooke Foundation. Terry LaRocco, a former volunteer gardener at Bailey House, also gave a donation in memory of her parents, John and Mari LaRocco, to help maintain the gardens.

Ten new types of plants were added to the garden for a total of 41 species. Each example was given a new sign to identify it by Hawaiian name, scientific name and classification (endemic, indigenous, Polynesian introduced or non-native). A beautiful color ethnobotanical landscape guide was created and is available for museum visitors. It contains a landscape map of the grounds and descriptions of the native plants and their traditional uses. The garden plan and brochure were written by Mr. Pellegrino and the brochure was designed by Hekili Lani of Hilo. Please stop by the Bailey House and tour the beautiful new gardens!

The Maui Historical Society sponsored a panel discussion at the J. Walter Cameron Center on September 16th to celebrate the publishing of the latest edition of the Index to the Maui News 1951 - 1973. Participants were Gail Ainsworth, moderator and compiler of the Index; Darrell Oishi; Walette Pellegrino; and Sanford Langa. Mahalo to the speakers, all who attended, and to the funders of the index: Atherton Foundation, Barbara Long, Fred Baldwin Memorial Foundation, Maui Friends of the Library, E.C.M., Inc.-Hilton Unemori, McInerny Foundation, Friends of the Library of Hawai'i, Mary C.

Sanford, Nancy Golly, Katherine D. Smith, Hāna Maui Trust, G. N. Wilcox Trust, Hawai'i Council for the Humanities, and Kristin Holmes. The Index to the Maui News comes in 3 volumes, 1900-1932, 1933-1950 and 1951-1973. The volumes are available for $50 at the Museum Shop. The third volume is also available in pdf format on the Maui Historical Society website!

We happily accept donations to our document, artifact and photo collections. Please call Nicole McMullen at 244-3326 for more information.
